Help Put Out The Fire!

Join the Bucket Brigade

In the pioneer era of our country, people worked together to put out fires by passing buckets of water along a line – forming a bucket brigade. This made the task much more efficient than if everyone ran to carry their own bucket. As each one contributed a small part to the task, the job was accomplished.

Today's Church Plant Leader is also a pioneer - and many of them need your help in putting out a fire. The cost of health insurance and health care is raging out of control and many of our church plant leaders are struggling, alone, to quench it. By joining the MCE Bucket Brigade, and doing your own part, YOU can have a tremendous part in providing help!

Here's How:

Take an MCE Bucket Brigade bucket to your home or workplace, or take one for a Sunday School class or Bible study project. If you don't have one of MCE's ready-made buckets, make your own. A bottle or jar will do nicely.

Toss your pocket change in it at the end of each day (at home or work) or save that change and bring to the Sunday School class, or Bible study.

When your bucket is full, or perhaps twice each year, make out a check for the amount that you have accumulated and send it to Midwest Church Extension (designated for Bucket Brigade). You won't miss a penny!

100% of all funds received will be reserved for MCE Church Planters for use in offsetting medical expenses and paying health insurance premiums.

Bucket Brigade History

Since the Bucket Brigade was established in August 2006, several thousands of dollars in contributions have been received from dozens of brigade members. That has enabled the timely disbursement of those funds, to assist MCE's missionary family of church planters to meet their health care and insurance costs.

As health care and insurance costs continue to spiral upward the need also increases for a greater number of brigade members to assist in this most practical ministry.
